

XM is the future of Radio, and it is the one sanctuary that a person can go and relax and listen to whatever they want without having to listen to advertisers.

We are paying customers buying a service. XM should have the right to sell us whatever we want, and the government should have no right to limit the services provided.

XM is FREEDOM radio, and America is the land of the free,

If NAB is worried that XM is going to hurt their business tell them they better start Launching satalites into space, or to buy Sirrius and compete like a real competitor, instead of crying to FCC when their profits start to fade.

The people have spoken, and XM is here to stay.
